Sensys Gatso receives an order from Thailand for delivery of traffic enforcement systems, worth SEK 5.6 million

Sensys Gatso Group, a global leader in traffic safety systems, through its subsidiary, Sensys Gatso Sweden, has received an order for the supply and support of traffic enforcement systems from its Thailand partner Vision One Co., Ltd to be used by the Royal Highway Police. The order has a value of SEK 5.6 million.

Sensys Gatso, in collaboration with its partner in Thailand, has received an order for the provision of traffic safety systems. The new order will see the deployment of Sensys Gatso's tested technology on newly constructed motorways M6 and M81, providing a dependable means of measuring and enforcing speed. The enforcement of speed limits is a significant factor in influencing driving behaviour and has a direct bearing on road safety.

"We are delighted to collaborate with our partner, Vision One Co., Ltd, and to work alongside Loxley Public Co.,Ltd, the main contractor for the M6 and M81 motorways. Our joint team is fully committed to delivering the traffic enforcement systems by Q4 of 2023." says Nash Aqlan, Area Sales Manager, Sensys Gatso.

This order is a consequence of the increased sales activities in this pivotal region, and represents a notable advancement for Sensys Gatso in the South East Asia area. For a prolonged period, Sensys Gatso has maintained its strong market position in South East Asia, and this latest order underscores the company's unwavering commitment to supporting Thailand's leadership role in road safety.
